September 7, 2009

Quest Serviced Apartments has begun construction of its newest multi-million dollar development, Quest Campbelltown, NSW.

Built – one of Australia’s most dynamic construction and fit-out companies – is constructing the latest Quest development, lead by Built Projects Director, Mitchell Futcher.

The $16 million property investment will employ 200 local consultants, project managers, site managers and tradesmen. When complete, the anticipated 4.5 star property will feature 81 studio, one, two and three-bedroom serviced apartments over four levels.

Quest Chairman, Paul Constantinou, said, “Quest is excited to forge ahead with this Sydney suburban development. Quest Campbelltown will offer business travellers to Sydney’s southwest a home away from home.”

Located 55kms southwest of Sydney’s CBD, Quest has highlighted Campbelltown as the ideal location to build its newest franchise. The primary purpose of the property is to provide stylish and spacious serviced apartment accommodation to those involved in local industry, including health, education, retail, government services and manufacturing.

Quest will consider franchise management expressions of interest for the Campbelltown property in February 2010.
