

Spacious accommodation at Quest this summer

Media Release

November 2009

Warm weather has arrived, Christmas is almost here and many leisure travellers are busily planning getaways for the summer.

Holidays with family and friends help build life long memories, but anyone who has travelled with a group will tell you that the confines of a standard hotel room are not always ideal.

That's where Quest Serviced Apartments can help. Whether it's a popular seaside location, bustling city experience or relaxing with family and friends in regional and suburban areas, Quest's properties across Australia, New Zealand and Fiji (over 125) are a welcomed change to the standard hotel room this holiday season.

At Quest, space is abundant. All one, two and three bedroom apartments offer separate living, dining and sleeping areas, fully equipped kitchens and laundry facilities. Open floor plans allow everyone enough room to spread out while still staying under the one roof.

While studio apartments are surprisingly roomy, boast well appointed kitchenettes and offer the best of everything a traveller will need while away.

Quest Chairman Paul Constantinou, said Quest is excited to bring holiday makers a 'home-away-from-home' experience this summer.

"We understand that no matter where our guests' travels take them, the comforts of home make each trip that much more enjoyable. With this in mind, we welcome all leisure travellers to Quest this summer. We'd like to show you how serviced apartment accommodation offering can further accentuate your summer holiday."

Quest properties offer a variety of apartment configurations to suit singles, couples, families and large groups from studios up to three-bedroom apartments. Most two and three-bedroom apartments contain a second bathroom and adjoining apartments can also be reserved on request.

Kellie and Dale Robertson and their three daughters have regularly holidayed at Quest Cronulla for the past ten years.

"For more than a few nights sleep, we'd stay at a Quest apartment over a hotel, any day. Not just because of the cost savings, but because of the convenience and level of comfort," Kellie said.

"There's a hotel across the road from Quest Cronulla and not once have we been tempted to stay there," Kellie said. "When we stay at Quest we truly feel relaxed and at home...the girls even call it 'our apartment!'"

Quest Services

Just because you choose to stay in a serviced apartment doesn't mean you have to do housework all summer long. Guests can enjoy a break from chores with Quest's regular housekeeping service* as well as valet laundry and dry cleaning services. Babysitting booking services and selected local restaurant charge-back arrangements are other options that can allow guests to further tailor their holidays.

For those preferring to eat in, Quest also offers to stock guests' apartment fridges and pantries in advance (from milk and bread through to all the ingredients for a feast).

To use the 'pantry shopping service' guests simply advise the property before arrival. The 'pantry shopping service' is also available to guests who've already settled in but would like the grocery shopping done. For the budget conscious, this is one way to minimise dining out or takeaway costs.

Holidaymakers of all sorts at times like to take it easy. Quest apartments are equipped to help guests unwind and enjoy in-room movies via DVD players or Movie-link. Broadband internet access is also available for your entire group's web browsing needs.

Security is a major priority at Quest. Guests can rest assured that on-site reception staff are accessible throughout the day, with management available at all hours and are always on call to address guests' needs. Most Quest properties provide secure internal and external doors and cameras for peace of mind and prohibit unauthorised guests from entering facilities. Most Quest properties with pools and BBQ facilities are also appropriately fenced for safety.

Quest franchisees own and operate each property and take great pleasure in catering to guest's specific needs. Families often need baby baths or high chairs for their infants. Others prefer to cook with rice cookers. Guests are encouraged to contact the properties in advance and they will find staff are most happy to accommodate.

If you would like your travelling group to stay with Quest over the summer holidays, visit www.questapartments.com.au to select a property near your holiday destination and give that property a call to secure your booking.
